Positive Creation Evidences for the Origin of Human Beings

Prof. Gary Locklair, PhD, FCRS

The background is a historical painting depicting the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. The scene is set in a grand, ornate room with high ceilings and large windows. Numerous men in 18th-century attire are gathered around a long table, some seated and some standing, engaged in discussion and signing documents. A large, stylized graphic of the American flag, featuring concentric red, white, and blue rings, is superimposed over the center of the painting. The text is overlaid on the image in a large, black, serif font.

We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness.

For Creation

The background of the slide features a faint, stylized illustration of two figures, possibly Adam and Eve, standing in a dense thicket of branches and leaves. The figures are rendered in a simple, almost woodcut-like style. The entire scene is set against a light cream background, which is framed by a solid green border at the top and bottom.
